

The Hare And The Tortoise

Adapted from Aesop's famous fable

Words and music by Judy Lane

The Hare And The Tortoise

Missus Tortoise, I must report to you, unkind words in the meadow today.

Mister Hare, that arrogant animal called me stupid and very slow.

Oh dear, how upsetting those nasty folks can be.

Just sit down a while and I'll make a cup of tea.

Missus Tortoise I have to defend my pride, all the village was listening in.

I challenged him to a race in the morning and said that I would win.

Mister Tortoise, what have you done?

We will both be figures of fun. I'll dare not show my face at all.

Missus Tortoise, please calm down dear. All is not as bad as you fear.

Mr Hare is certainly speedy but he is lazy too.

Next day dawned and the grey mist lifted as the sun climbed high in the sky.

Rabbits, mice and moles all left their cosy holes, the great race to espy.

The Mayor arrived to see fair play, his gold chain shining bright.

He held up his hanky high in the air. "Are you ready, Mister Tortoise, are you ready Mister Hare?"

Off went the hare like a shooting star, his white teeth gleaming in the sun.

"I've almost won this race" he cried, and the tortoise has only just begun.

I'll rest awhile on this sunny bank with my head on a bale of straw.

But his eyes slowly closed and his head dropped down,
and then he began to snore.

But Mister Tortoise plodded on wards, nearer, near er to his goal.

Then a jubilant shout woke the sleeping hare,
"He's won, he's won, he's won!"

So, dear friends, if you feel worthless and fail in all you do, just remember Mister Tortoise and tackle life anew.

Just keep trying, trying, trying, never, never, never give in.
You will find that slow but sure, you'll win, you'll win, you'll win.
